Premonition

Robert W. Service

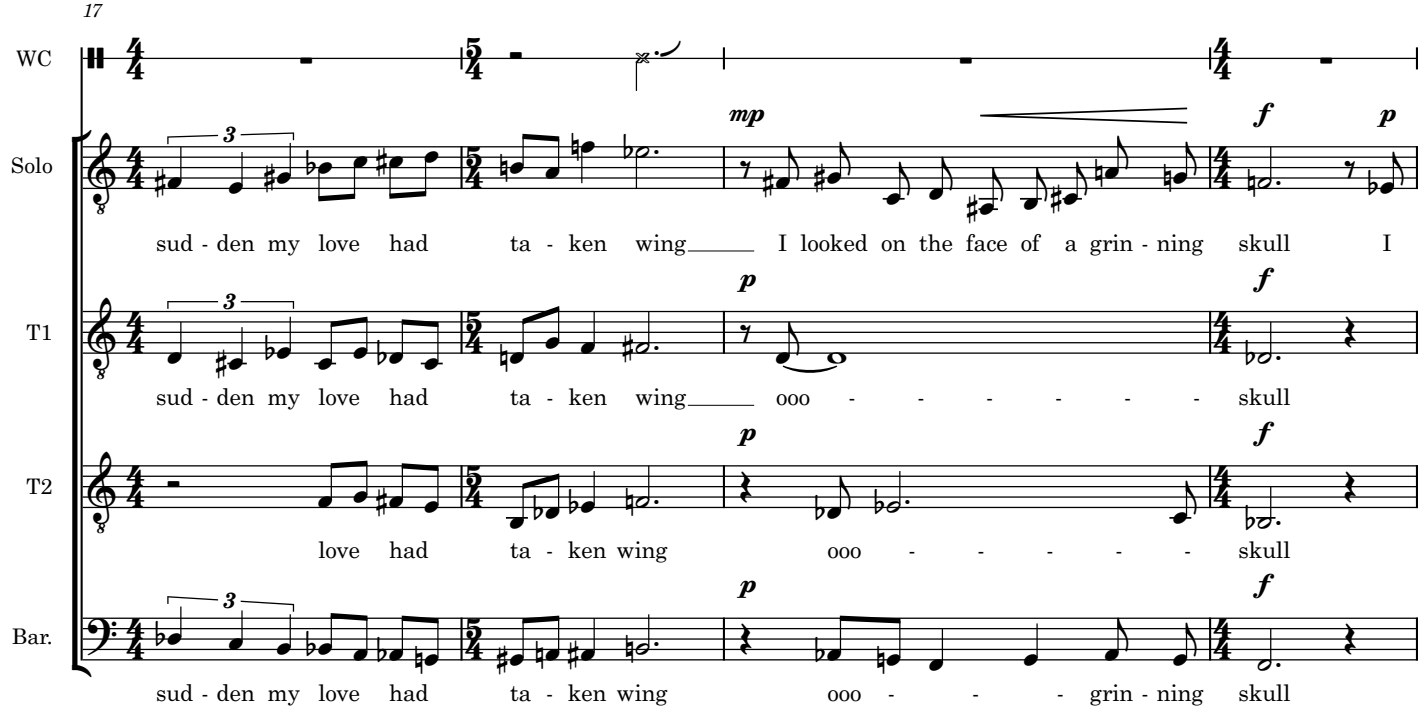

Steve Smythe

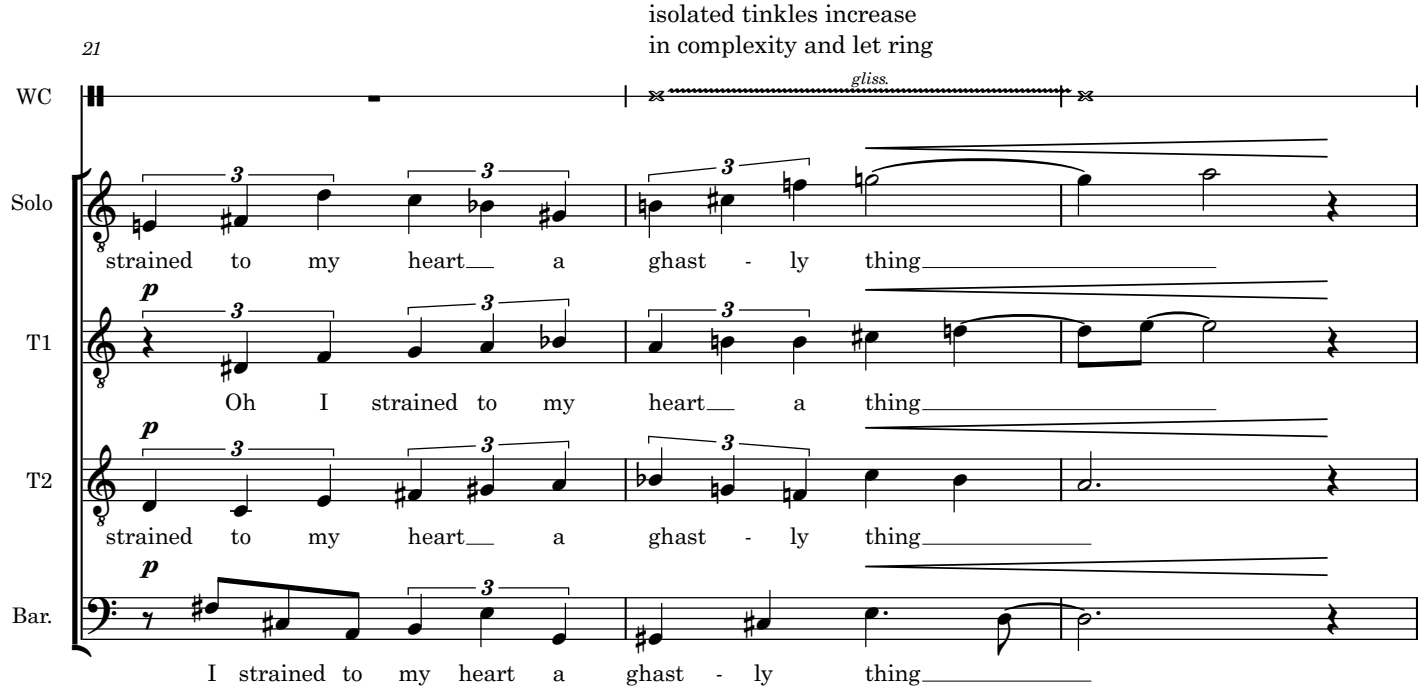

In the original score, T1, T2, and B repeated a section and at each repeat, if they were not instructed to be tacet, they would choose a starting word in the sequence and sing the notes to different words. This score illustrates by example but is not definitive.

The original score featured superimposed 11/8 and 4/4 time signatures. Here the marimba, T1, T2, and B were in 11/8, but I think it is easier to read and perform in 4/4, which is the signature originally used by the clarinet and solo tenor.
